

Contents

- Angels and interfering busybodies: the social construction of two occupations (Symonds) 249
- Boundary encroachment and task delegation: clinical pharmacists on the medical team (Mesler) 310
- Clinical psychology as a strategy for dealing with psychosocial issues in a South African neurosurgery ward (Miller and Swartz) 293
- Expressivity within a time schedule: subordinated interaction on geriatric wards (Sellerberg) 68
- 'Falling out of culture': the effects of repetition strain injury on sufferers' roles and identity (Ewan et al) 168
- Hospital consultants' views of their patients (Britten) 83
- Husbands' participation in fertility treatment: they also serve who only stand and wait (Meerabeau) 396
- Inequality in health and the class position of women – the Norwegian experience (Dahl) 492
- Lay epidemiology and the prevention paradox: the implications of coronary candidacy for health education (Davison et al) 1
- Mediating illness: newspaper coverage of tranquilliser dependence (Gabe et al) 332
- Missing bodies – towards a sociology of embodiment (Review article) (Turner) 265
- On the margins of the medical marketplace? An exploratory study of alternative practitioners' perceptions (Cant and Calnan) 39
- Orchestrating an encounter: a note on the talk of mentally handicapped children (Brewer et al) 58
- Possibly abusive, often benign, and always necessary: on power and domination in medical practice (Maseide) 545
- 'Pulling down churches': accounting for the British Mental Health Users' Movement (Rogers and Pilgrim) 129
- Side effects of psychiatric treatment: a qualitative study of issues associated with a random allocation research study (Anthony et al) 530
- Social, developmental and health correlates of 'attractiveness' in adolescence (Macintyre and West) 149
- Style of life and the salience of health (Calnan and Williams) 506
- The 'eclipse' of folk medicine in western society? (Bakx) 20
- The identification and provision of care for the terminally ill at home by 'family' members (Hunt) 375
- The roles of the wife and marital reality construction in the narrative interview (Research note) (Gerhardt) 411
- The social construction of noncompliance: a study of health care and social service providers in everyday practice (Fineman) 354

Contents

- Angels and interfering busybodies: the social construction of two occupations (Symonds) 249
- Boundary encroachment and task delegation: clinical pharmacists on the medical team (Mesler) 310
- Clinical psychology as a strategy for dealing with psychosocial issues in a South African neurosurgery ward (Miller and Swartz) 293
- Expressivity within a time schedule: subordinated interaction on geriatric wards (Sellerberg) 68
- 'Falling out of culture': the effects of repetition strain injury on sufferers' roles and identity (Ewan et al) 168
- Hospital consultants' views of their patients (Britten) 83
- Husbands' participation in fertility treatment: they also serve who only stand and wait (Meerabeau) 396
- Inequality in health and the class position of women – the Norwegian experience (Dahl) 492
- Lay epidemiology and the prevention paradox: the implications of coronary candidacy for health education (Davison et al) 1
- Mediating illness: newspaper coverage of tranquilliser dependence (Gabe et al) 332
- Missing bodies – towards a sociology of embodiment (Review article) (Turner) 265
- On the margins of the medical marketplace? An exploratory study of alternative practitioners' perceptions (Cant and Calnan) 39
- Orchestrating an encounter: a note on the talk of mentally handicapped children (Brewer et al) 58
- Possibly abusive, often benign, and always necessary: on power and domination in medical practice (Maseide) 545
- 'Pulling down churches': accounting for the British Mental Health Users' Movement (Rogers and Pilgrim) 129
- Side effects of psychiatric treatment: a qualitative study of issues associated with a random allocation research study (Anthony et al) 530
- Social, developmental and health correlates of 'attractiveness' in adolescence (Macintyre and West) 149
- Style of life and the salience of health (Calnan and Williams) 506
- The 'eclipse' of folk medicine in western society? (Bakx) 20
- The identification and provision of care for the terminally ill at home by 'family' members (Hunt) 375
- The roles of the wife and marital reality construction in the narrative interview (Research note) (Gerhardt) 411
- The social construction of noncompliance: a study of health care and social service providers in everyday practice (Fineman) 354

- The sociology of chronic illness: a review of research and prospects (Bury) 457
- The United States medical profession: an abnormal form of the division of labour (Fryer) 213
- Trouble in store: some thoughts on the management of waiting lists (Pope) 193
- Volunteers in the independent hospice movement (Hoad) 231
- Wisdom, diligence and teeth: discursive practices and the creation of mothers (Nettleton) 98
- Women's health or social control? The role of the medical profession in relation to factory legislation in late 19th century Britain (Harrison) 469